Intellectual Property Rights Standing Committee

KSA Report on USTR Special 301
Out of Cycle Review

November 2009
INPUT OF THE KINGDOM OF SAUDI ARABIA TO USTR's SPECIAL 301 OUT - of
- CYCLE REVIEW
November 2009

The following is the summary of activities and efforts of government agencies of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia responsible for implementation of IPR laws.

The Kingdom has continued its sincere and vigorous efforts for implementation and enforcement of IPR laws and procedures during the year 2009. The Kingdom is fully committed to fulfill its promises and WTO commitments in good faith. No efforts are spared in the achievement of this objective.

The attached information and statistics for each relevant agency testifies to the continuing improvement and success of our mission. The Kingdom sincerely believes that implementation and enforcement of its IPR laws is beneficial for its economy and thus in our own supreme interest. IPR protection is a key component of Saudi Arabia's long-term commitment to implementing King Abdullah's vision to develop a knowledge-based economy.

The efforts of Saudi Arabia have been duly recognized in the form of anti-counterfeiting and piracy awards to Saudi Arabia Customs by the World Customs Organization in 2009 for its work in raising awareness in the Middle East by organizing the first Pan-Arab conference on this issue and by its commitment to building the capacity of Customs and by translating WCO documents into Arabic. Saudi Customs has also provided information about its extensive seizures to enforce trademark rules.

The Kingdom has taken concrete action to build an effective IPR regime, and has worked closely with industry to not only ensure their concerns are addressed, but also to increase the capacity of government agencies with training. Industry has recognized the Kingdom's progress, and continues to partner with the Saudi government to enhance IPR enforcement and awareness.

The Kingdom is pleased to give below an account of some important developments during the year 2009, along the lines outlined in USTR's list of issues.

Transparency in Copyright Enforcement:

¶1. The website of the Ministry of Culture and Information giving information on raids data, hearing dates and decisions and penalties issued by the Violation Review Committee (VRC) is being updated. A good lot of new information has been posted, including 529 VRC cases to date. The English version of the website is being developed and it is expected to be in use in the first quarter of 2010. Work is continuing and will be completed and updated very soon.

¶2. The dates of adjudication of IPR cases in the VRC are set in coordination with the rights-holders thus giving them adequate advance notice to attend hearings.

IPR Enforcement:

RIYADH 00001572 002 OF 006

¶3. Raids on the street vendors of pirated and counterfeit goods have been intensified. Statistics are given in Annexes A through C.

¶4. The Ministry of Culture and Information opened a VRC branch in Jeddah. Another branch in Dammam is expected to open in 2010.

¶5. The VRC has imposed the maximum penalty of Saudi Riyals 100,000 in some cases. The VRC is currently considering two cases which will be referred to the Board of Grievances with a recommendation of deterrent sentencing once the VRC concludes its proceedings. 30 decisions were issued to compensate rights holders where compensations reached up to SR (70,000), and it was decided to close the store for different periods.

¶6. The Ministry of Culture and Information is conducting a study in collaboration with the Communications and Information Technology Commission (CITC) to devise suitable procedures to block websites that sell pirated or counterfeit goods on the internet. The study would also devise ways and means to take action against infringing websites. In addition, we have requested WIPO for an expert to provide advice and help on this issue, including advice on legal and technical matters in relation to adherence to internet treaties

¶7. As for satellite signal piracy, Ministry of Culture and Information now has the authority to control the import and use of receivers with decoding capacity. The Ministry would thus be able to license and monitor their use which would go a long way in curbing satellite signal piracy.

Government Use of Legal Software:

¶8. As the lead agencies responsible for IPR protection, the Ministry of Commerce and Industry and the Ministry of Culture and Information are jointly drafting the text of a proposed decision to be issued by His Majesty the King asking all Ministries, Departments and Agencies to carry out and complete software asset management audit.

¶9. The software asset management audit by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry is expected to be completed in the first quarter of 2010. The Ministry of Culture and Information has an active software management program which meets international standards.

Data Protection:

¶10. The Saudi Food and Drug Administration (SDFA) has confirmed its commitment to the Saudi legislation on the Protection of Commercial Trade Secrets. The Chairman of Saudi IPR Committee has held discussion on this matter with Pharma and then with SDFA to clarify some technical points. It was also agreed that this matter requires some technical assistance and the need to hold a seminar or a workshop. Incidentally, a workshop on the Protection of Confidential Commercial Information was held in Riyadh in June 2009. Pharma is looking into the possibility of organizing another similar workshop with specific focus on the implementation issues and on the practices of different countries. In addition Ministry of Commerce and Industry is seeking assistance from the WIPO on this matter.

¶11. King Abdullah approved the Exclusive Marketing Rights (EMR) proposal in October 2009. The Ministry of Commerce and Industry, SFDA, King Abdulaziz City for Science and Technology (KACST), and Ministry of Health have agreed on a procedure to implement the EMR. KACST's General Directorate of Industrial Property is prepared to consider applications which request EMR protection immediately.

Public Awareness Campaign:

¶12. The public awareness campaign against piracy and counterfeiting is continuing through the print and electronic media and the response is encouraging. It was also requested that the private sector take a major part in this and they promised to do so by the first quarter of 2010.

Legislation:

Saudi Arabia has requested for an expert from the WIPO on implementation of the provisions of the WCT and WPPT.

Summing Up:

The foregoing narration and the attached statistical tables show the commitment, attention, action and achievements of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia in implementing and enforcing its IPR obligations. These are bearing fruit and this process will continue and will be further enhanced.

The Efforts of the Copyright General Department

First: In the Field of Cases

The Copyright General Department (CGD) has adopted a procedure whereby if a case on initial examination is found to be within the competence of the Department, it is put on the Department's website, with a number, in order to enable the holder of the right to follow his case through the internet, without the need to contact the Department, until the decision by the Committee.

The cases on the website up till now are 529. Decisions have been made in some of them while decisions on the remaining cases are in process.

Visits made by the Department to the market during the period from 1/1/2009 to 30/9/2009 were 2106 and during these visits about 4912 sites and establishments were visited and 3,838,975 violating materials and equipments were seized.

The Violations Review Committee under the provisions of Copyright Protection Law is chaired by the Assistant Deputy Minister of Domestic Media.

The Committee has made during the past three months more than 128 decisions. Punishments in these decisions range from warnings to fines up to SR (100,000), in addition to closure of outlets from ten days to two months. For repeated violations, one of the stores was fined SR 270,000, and it was decided to close the store.

30 decisions were issued to compensate rights holders where compensations reached up to SR (70,000), and it was decided to close the store for different periods.

Second: In the Field of Awareness:

The Department designed symposia and printed pamphlets giving warnings for not respecting the law. Also fatwas by famous Islamic scholars against copyright violations were published on the website. The Department has supported and encouraged symposia and lectures organized by the private sector with good participation.

The Department has encouraged the private sector to make information and awareness campaigns.

Moreover, The Department has initiated TV and Radio programs to create awareness about copyright protection.

Third: In the Field of Training:

The Department has stepped up its training program. Every Monday, a lecture is given by specialists to train the employees on how to perform their tasks. The private sector participates in these weekly lectures.

The Department took part in workshops organized by international organizations in the field of intellectual property, specially the World Intellectual Property Organization WIPO. The Department now has qualified persons bearing certificates in the field of intellectual property.

Also, the Department sent some of its officials to foreign countries to participate in courses, seminars and workshops on IPR.

A number of employees working in CGD participated in most of the local and international IPR conferences and workshops.
